Goerdt Named President-Elect of League Executive Board

Tipton Mayor Tammi Goerdt has been elected president-elect of the Iowa League of Cities Executive Board, positioning her to serve in a leadership role for the organization representing Iowa's cities.

Goerdt was elected by the League membership during the organization's annual business meeting held in conjunction with the Iowa League of Cities Annual Conference & Exhibit. As president-elect, she will serve on the League's 19-member Executive Board, which provides policy direction for the organization, adopts the annual operating budget, establishes membership dues and provides direction to the executive director.

Although Goerdt has served as Mayor of Tipton for approximately a year and a half, she brings more than 25 years of experience working with local governments in a variety of professional and public service capacities.

"I value the opportunity to contribute to the vision, mission and function of the Iowa League of Cities," Goerdt said. "The League plays an important role in bringing cities together, sharing knowledge and helping communities address the challenges they face."

Goerdt's public service experience includes serving as a reserve police officer for the City of Ames and Story County, participating on the Story County Sexual Assault Response Team and serving with the Tipton Fire Department in various roles from 2007-2020. She also has served on the Cedar County Board of Adjustments, Cedar County Emergency Management Agency Commission and Region VI Local Emergency Planning Committee.

Professionally, Goerdt has worked with local governments for more than 25 years, providing services related to building, electrical, mechanical and fire code compliance, zoning administration, nuisance abatement, workplace safety and other municipal needs.

The League is pleased to announce Mayor Tammi Goerdt as President-Elect for the coming year.
